Following crash, driver's condition worsens

by Ariel White

The driver of the gasoline tanker truck which exploded August 30 is reported to be in serious condition in Hamilton General Hospital Burn Unit.

Steven McCall, 33, of Omemee was able to escape from the flaming vehicle after it swerved into the ditch on Highway 121, north of the Essonville Line. The accident happened at 2 p.m.

The driver was taken to Haliburton Hospital, then transferred to the Hamilton hospital. Initially it was reported the man was suffering from non-life threatening injuries, but with burns to 25 per cent of his body. According to Haliburton Highlands OPP however, McCall took a turn for the worse later in the week and required life support to sustain his breathing.

Sergeant Dave Fletcher spoke to McCall's father who was surprised his

Wigamog Resort sold

One of the signature resorts of the Highlands has changed hands.

Wigamog Resort has been sold. The sale was announced Friday afternoon by owners Chris and Kimberley Grossman. The resort property on the north shore of Lake Kashagawigamog has been sold to a group headed by Walter Prychidny. The deal closes September 14.

"We believe the resort is in good hands," Kimberley Grossman said Friday afternoon. "Mr. Prychidny is a hotelier, a man who knows the resort business and who is prepared to take this property to the next level."

The sale marks the end of a 31 year connection with the Ward family. Kimberley's parents, Art and Joan Ward, purchased the resort in 1968. They sold the operation to their daughter

The garbage police are watching

If you are taking your neighbour's garbage to the dump, you may be breaking the law. That is the interpretation of Snowdon Clerk Ernie Hills in a memo he circulated to area municipalities. The memo prompted Reeve Jeanne Anthon to wonder if the "the garbage police" will be patrolling the area.

The memo outlined provisions of the Environmental Protection Act (EPA) which regulates the transport of waste materials. The Ministry of the Environment has advised that it will be cracking down on those who transport waste materials without a Certificate of Approval to do so.

Hills points out that the regulations exempt "the collection of a householder's own domestic wastes by the householder and the transportation of such waste to a waste disposal site by the householder."

A look at the proposed municipal layout

Haliburton County Council voted to reduce the number of municipalities from the current ten to 4. To achieve this goal, the councillors agreed to the following configurations involving the amalgamation of the these current municipalities:

- Anson, Hindon and Minden; Lutterworth; and Snowdon.
- Sherborne et al; and Stanhope.
- Bicroft; Cardiff; Glamorgan; and Monmouth.
- Dysart (no change).

The following chart provides a snapshot of how the municipalities in this new confirmation would compare. The figures are taken from Statistics Canada's 1996 figures. The percentage change is a comparison with 1991 census figures and the area is give in square kilometres. The Assessment figures were provided by the various municipal offices and represent the total assessment within the current jurisdiction including government owned land, (except in the case of Sherborne et al where the townships of Lawrence and Nightingale, part of Algonquin Park, are not included).

YEAH BABY....IT WAS HIM: Canadian movie star and comedian Mike Myers made a surprise appearance in Minden Saturday, August 28. The popular actor, whose latest movie, 'Austin Powers: The Spy who Shagged Me', was seen in a number of location in the community. He obliged fans on the Main Street signing autographs in front of Stedman's store. He also dined at Jasper's Grill on Highway 35. "Several members of the staff mentioned to me that he was here," owner Terri Gardner said. She was doubtful. so she stopped by his table, introduced herself and discovered it was in fact Myers. "He is was very friendly and personable....a real down to earth guy," she said. The movie star posed for photos with Terri's daughter Taylor and in front of the restaurant's sign.

Gull River Waterway report presented to County Council

Haliburton County council heard a lengthy presentation regarding the proposed Gull River Waterway project at the August meeting of council.

Representatives from Cumming, Cockburn Limited told council that it would be possible to provide passage for boats from the Trent Canal at Balsam Lake to the Village of Haliburton.

Several obstacles must be circumvented between the dam at Coboconk and the final destination on Head Lake at the Village of Haliburton. The consultants told council a lock could be built at Coboconk, but in order to do that, the bridge by the beach (between the CIBC and the Clinic) would have to be raised to allow boats to pass under it. An alternative would be to trailer boats from below the dam to the pond above the Coboconk dam.

The next obstacle is the rapids between Silver and Shadow Lakes. Moving some rocks and replacing them in other locations to allow boat traffic through, the consultants say, should solve that problem. It was noted that the water course could not be widened without risking lowering the level of Shadow Lake.

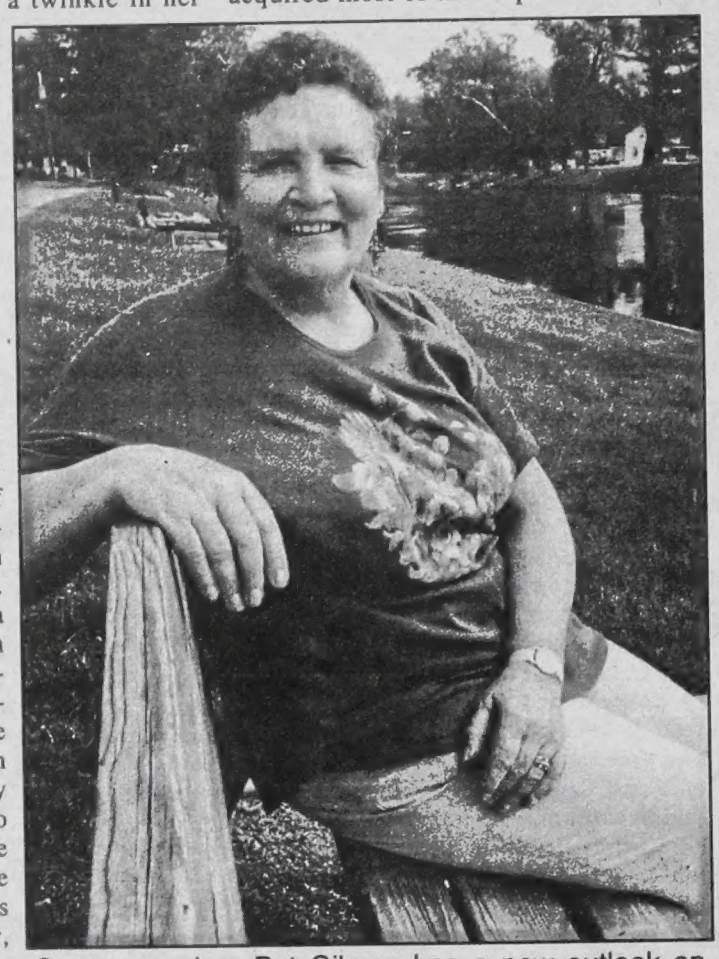
A 'woman of the nineties' rediscovers her theatrical past

Cancer diagnosis brings focus to life

There are probably few people who describe cancer as "a gift", but that is how Pat Gibson of Minden talks about her brush with the dreaded disease.

"When I was diagnosed with cancer, it was devastating. I thought my life was over," she said recently, reflecting back to January of 1997 when the doctors informed her she had breast cancer. They acted quickly when the lump was detected in her breast and in February of the same year the breast was removed. "They asked if I wanted a lumpectomy or whether I wanted the breast removed," Pat recalls. "I told them to take as much as they needed but to leave me as much as they could," she says with a twinkle in her eye. Her doctor told her he could rebuild the breast while the cancerous tissue was being removed. "It was great! I got a tummy tuck at the same time as they were dealing with the cancer."



Cancer survivor Pat Gibson has a new outlook on life, one that led her back to the theatre.

Pat had always been an active member of her community. In Toronto, where she lived for over 25 years, she was involved in a number of municipal committees, particularly in relation to the library. She also hosted a regular television program in which municipal political issues were often the topic of the day. In 1984 she left the city behind and moved to a cottage on Little Bob Lake, a place where she spends most of the summer, joining the migration of snowbirds each autumn, seeking out warmer climes to the south.

Following the operation and the chemotherapy for cancer, her daughter realized that Pat's outlook was not conducive to a successful recovery. "She urged me to be positive, to get back involved in the community," Pat said, and that is exactly what she did.

Prior to coming to Canada in 1957, Pat had taken theatre training in her native Scotland. She had little chance to practice the craft, other than an appearance on a BBC children's program, before leaving with her family for Canada. Her theatre training no doubt stood her in good stead when she hosted the cable TV program. She was also involved in amateur theatre in Toronto 30 years ago, but she never seriously returned to acting until cancer made her rethink her life.

With her daughter's admonition ringing in her ears, Pat sought out theatre opportunities in her winter home of Ocala, Florida. The city has one of the most active amateur theatres in the state. The Ocala Civic Theatre combines amateur performers and volunteer crews with professional managers. The theatre is the vibrant heart of the community. The yearly bill is crammed with productions which draw rave reviews from both the community and the critics.

When Pat returned to Florida, the year following the cancer operation, she reached back into her early training and sought an opportunity to be a part of the city's busy theatre scene. She wanted to help set up a children's theatre program through the city library but also wanted to be a part of the bigger stage. She volunteered to assist the stage manager in a Gilbert and Sullivan review the theatre had mounted. Through a series of circumstances, she acquired most of the responsibilities of the job.

The next play being cast was All My Sons, a poignant drama by Arthur Miller, set in post war United States. It is a play which many consider one of the icons of the American stage. The connection is so strong that Pat was concerned the fact she was not a citizen might stand in her way of getting a part. "This is something I really wanted," Pat said. "Many of the plays amateur theatre groups present tend to be light farces or comedies. I love Arthur Miller's work. He is a real playwright."

Pat attended the audition and, to her surprise, got the demanding part of Kate Keller, the mother of the house which is being torn apart by memories of the war. Kate refuses to accept that her son, missing in action, is in fact dead. Her family, meanwhile is tormented by a mistake made in the father's war material plant which, before it was discovered, caused the deaths of over 100 airmen. While the play has its lighter moments, it is one filled with strong emotions, requiring an enormous dedication to the craft of acting.

On stage at Ocala Civic Theatre in Florida with Bob Bella, Pat Gibson plays the demanding role of Kate Keller, an emotionally complex part in Arthur Miller's play, All My Sons.

Her recent brush with cancer helped Pat to focus her acting energies. Speaking about her part she noted, "Kate is very emotional at the end of the play, so it is very challenging. Her whole world in collapsing, she's been in denial about her son. It's an extremely emotional scene," Pat recalls. "Kate is a lot like me."

Knowingly or not, Pat had taken her daughter's advice to heart. While she was rehearsing for her role in All My Sons, she was still stage managing the Gilbert and Sullivan review. "I was putting in 12 hour days," the 60 year old said, "Working the G&S show from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. then off to rehearsal for All My Sons at 6:45."

> This "woman of the nineties", in addition to putting new verve in her life, has acquired two tattoos.

Despite the gruelling schedule, Pat was happy. "It was a wonderful experience, something I wanted to do," Pat said, bubbling with an enthusiasm that no doubt has its roots in her last curtain call earlier this spring.

While her successful return to the theatre after an absence of 30 years can be traced to the theatrical training she received years ago, Pat also says the cancer provided the drive for her to get involved. "When you hear that diagnosis, it forces you to focus on your life. You ask yourself, am I doing what I want to be doing with my life, because you suddenly realize there might not be too much of it left."

Pat believes that her positive attitude has been an important part of the healing process which has taken place in her body. She describes herself at a "woman of the nineties" who, in the last few years has even acquired two tattoos. One, a rose on a leafy vine, masks the scar along the upper edge of her breast. The second, is an angel, is perched on her shoulder....a symbol of the guardian angel who has helped Pat through this difficult period.

As a cancer survivor, Pat is a big booster of the Terry Fox fund raising efforts which will be taking place across Canada and in locations around the world September 19. "I have always had a strong interest in the Terry Fox runs. I participated while in Toronto," Pat said, noting that her sister died of cancer four years ago.

Pat's new found enthusiasm for life will be with her as she heads back to Florida in a little over a month. She wants to continue her involvement with the Ocala Community Theatre where she is helping with a group called the Golden Troupers. These seniors bring theatrical performances to residents of nursing homes in the Ocala area, as well as, to the community's main stage. She also has plans to assist with public relations at the Ocala theatre.

"For me, cancer was a wake-up call, a signal to get on with living, to do what I wanted to do with my life," Pat concluded.

(Individuals with an interest in breast cancer are invited to attend a performance of the play Handle With Care, September 21 in Peterborough. Based at the Toronto-Sunnybrook Regional Cancer Centre in Toronto, the touring company uses breast cancer survivors as presenters. The skits and presentations recount the experiences of individuals after the disease has been diagnosed. The performace takes place at 7:30 p.m. at the Evinrude Centre on Monaghan Road in Peterborough. A separate presentation for health care professionals is scheduled for the same day at noon. Better ways to spend promotional dollars

It was an interesting exercise, but the plan to connect Minden and Haliburton to the Trent/Severn Canal System appears to have floundered on a shoal of common sense. The report, presented to a recent meeting of the Haliburton County Council, suggested that creating the necessary links and infrastructure, would provide an economic tourism boost to the area.

While we encourage any effort which would bring more people into the Highlands, we can't help but wonder if an expenditure of this magnitude might not be better directed to other tourist promotion efforts. The capital investment of over $3.5 million could, we think, generate greater returns if spent on expanding the infrastructure within the county or creating other incentives to attract visitors to the Highlands. Indeed, the size and draft of boats which could be accommodated by this proposal are the kind which could be easily moved about on trailers. If the Highlands is attractive to boaters, then perhaps the effort should be put into encouraging them to pull their own boats to the area and enhancing the facilities at boat launch sites. Spending the money required to make a rather tenuous connection between here and the Trent Canal at Coboconk, we think, is not the best expenditure of public money. There are better ways to attract visitors to the Highlands.

Toward greater accountability

The following opinion was provided by the Ontario Community Newspapers Association.

Canada's brand of democracy may not be perfect, but it still stands near the top. It doesn't remain there on its own: it requires constant vigilance. Ironically, the greatest threat to democracy often comes from the politicians themselves.

From time to time, politicians at all levels entertain proposals to consider changes which would result in less accountable, more secretive government. Perhaps reflecting the basic element of human nature--that information is power, and those who have power want to keep it to themselves.

As newspapers whose role it is to convey information to the public, we often face struggles in our attempts to access such information. Newspapers are also one of the most effective forms of expression of public opinion. Never has there been a public outcry demanding less open, more secretive government. Yet less open, local government is what Ontarians will receive if the province proceeds with proposed changes to the Ontario Municipal Act.

The Municipal Act sets out the powers and limitations of our local municipalities and was enacted back in 1849. Granted, an overhaul to the 150 year piece of legislation is commendable, but changes to some sections of the act went too far.

The current act allows councils and municipal bodies to go in-camera, or behind closed doors, to make decisions related to specific issues that are best discussed in private: the security of property; personal/personnel matters; acquisition of land; labour relations; litigation; and legal matters of solicitor-client privilege. Before going in-camera, the municipality or local board must state that it is going in-camera and disclose the general nature of the matter to be considered.

A number of municipalities have suggested that the current list of subjects is too restrictive. As a result the proposed new Municipal Act would allow municipalities to write their own by-law spelling out any other reasons for them to go behind closed doors to make decisions that affect their communities. This could create a wide variance of in-camera rules across Ontario and be subject to constant changes at the whim of local councils.

Community newspapers believe this would only further erode the public's confidence in the democratic system.

We need greater accountability from our government, not a free rein to hold secret meetings. We need our elected representatives to stand in front of their constituents and speak loud and clear on issues that deal with the health and well-being of our communities.

We do not need more secretive governments at any level, rather we need to institute penalties for those who contravene or stretch the current restrictions too far. Furthermore, clear and specific definitions of what constitutes those restrictions need to be spelled out. The current list is far too open to abuse. There should be penalties for offending councils.

Sarnia Mayor Mike Bradley was concerned enough about this proposed legislation that he wrote to the then-Minister Al Leach saying that his amendment was, "a step backwards in making local government more accountable." He suggested the minister review the State of Michigan's act which holds members of council, boards and commissions personally responsible and subject to fines for violations of the act.

This newspaper is a member of the Ontario Community Newspaper Association which represents 265 newspapers. This association has raised these concerns with the Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing and its new minister Steve Gilchrist. To his credit, the new minister has been considering the concerns we have presented and indicated his willingness to listen.

If these changes to our open and democratic system concern you, we suggest you contact MPP Chris Hodgson and local council members and ask them to speak out before these changes are enacted.

Gasoline pricing: a provincial responsibility says MP

Editor:

In response to various letters to the editor concerning gas prices I am concerned that Ontario Premier Mike Harris is misinforming residents in suggesting the federal government has the power to deal with volatile prices at the gas pumps in Ontario. The federal government does not have the constitutional authority to regulate gasoline prices. In the 1970's, Premier Bill Davis froze the price of gas. It is within the provincial government's power to regulate gas prices.

Furthermore, Premier Harris is engaging in political grandstanding. If Premier Harris has any evidence of collusion on the part of the gas retailers or oil companies, then he should provide it to the Competition Bureau. If he thinks controls for gasoline, as practised in Prince Edward Island, Quebec and under consideration in Newfoundland, are a good policy for Ontario, then he should do the job that only he can do and regulate gas prices.

Oil Companies increase the price of gasoline for reasons due to shipping costs, availability and production costs. I find them high as well, but there has been no proof they are breaking the law.

The Competition Bureau has reviewed gas prices several times and found no evidence that the Competition Law has been violated. The Competition Bureau announced on July 21, 1999 that another examination is underway to determine if any anti-competitive activity amongst companies selling retail gasoline at the pumps caused the apparent rise in gas prices paid by consumers across Canada. The Competition Bureau does consider any information or evidence, which suggests anti-competitive behavior with respect to gasoline prices. Since 1972, there have been eleven trials related to gasoline prices and nine of these cases concluded with convictions.

If you have specific information indicating that the prices in your area are the result of an agreement among competitors, or some other type of anti-competitive behavior, please contact the Bureau at 1-800-348-5358.

From the palette of the mind

When we were children, words were coloured.
'Harlot' and 'murder' were dark purple.

Louis Macniece

I remember when I first realized that I was a slave to colour. It was 1989 and I was buying a car.

I'd never bought a new car before. The salesman was telling me about all the colour choices I had. There were, I believe, four that year. My finger stabbed the photograph of the car with the ice-blue finish. "That one!" I yelped. "Nobody else has a car that colour."

Which was true – prior to 1989. But that year, 14 trillion and six shmoes just like me bought cars with the ice-blue paint job. Today, there are so many cars that look like mine the paint job amounts to perfect camouflage. I have to tie a pink ribbon to the aerial so I can find my heap in a parking lot.

My question is: who decides? What shadowy Board of Governors declared that 1989 would be the Year of the Ice Blue Car Finish?

Who, for that matter, decreed that every kitchen range and refrigerator manufactured in the 60's would be Harvest Gold, or that pukey avocado?

It turns out that there's an American group that's primarily responsible for calling the colour shots as we know them. Each year, the Color Marketing Group of America convenes and decides which colours are In and which colours are destined for the slag heap of fashion history.

You may not be aware of it, but you've just lived through the Green Era. The colour green was extremely big in 1998, but right now it's as dead as Preston Manning's plans to install a 5-pin bowling alley in the basement of 24 Sussex Drive. The new hot colour is Blue.

Why, you ask? Because the Color Marketing Group of America says so, that's why.

But they're only giving Blue a short ride in the driver's seat – the rest of this year, at most. The new colour for the Millenium is – are you sure you're ready for this?

Orange.

So who exactly decides all this? And why? Depends on whether you believe tails can wag dogs or not. The tint tycoons on the Color Marketing Board of America insist that they don't make the calls. They just interpret trends. They claim it's you and me who pick the hues. And we don't do it because we're fickle. We choose tints that "reflect the spirit" of the day. When times are tough, we lean towards darker, more conservative colours like navy, burgundy and hunter green.

If we feel good about the future, we opt for flashy yellows and reds.

Cool colours are, the prevailing wisdom has it, 'intellectual'. Bright and flashy colours are strictly reserved for folks found treading water in the shallow end of the gene pool. It's a theory, I guess – but it's one with which the Russians would undoubtedly disagree vehemently. The Russian language contains the word 'krasnya'. Krasnya means 'red'. It also means 'beautiful'.

On the other hand, the German philosopher Goethe wrote: "...savages, uncivilized nations, children have a great fondness for colours in their utmost brightness and especially for yellow-red."

Well, I dunno about the bright colour/savage nature correlation. I do know that another fairly famous chap once wrote about colours. He wrote: "I like bright colours. When I get to heaven I mean to spend my first million years in painting. I expect orange and vermilion will be the dullest colours on my palette."

The chap who wrote those words was hardly an uncivilized savage. He was Winston Churchill.

And I like to think his musing goes some distance to explaining the spectacular sunsets we've been enjoying of late.

Proposed waterway would link Haliburton to Trent Canal

Once through Shadow Lake, boats would be trailered from the Government Dock in Norland to Elliott Falls, where they would be launched in the Gull River. Travelling across Moore Lake, the next obstruction is the dam at Highway 35. A marine railway already exists at that location.

Once the boats have reached Gull Lake, they would have clear passage to Minden. Since the Sunnyside Bridge in Minden is too low to allow passage of larger vessels, the consultants recommended the construction of docking facilities on the downriver side of the bridge. A boat launch already exists on the south side, at the end of Peck Street. With some improvements it would be suitable as a pick-up point to trailer boats from Minden to Canning Lake. An unused boat launch accessing Canning Lake exists on the Bat Lake Road. The proposal is to reopen that launch.

From that point, all but the biggest boats would be able to continue their voyage through Kashagawigamog and Grass Lakes and into Head Lake.

The consultants noted that some areas of the channels may have to be dredged to allow boat traffic during low water conditions.

Estimates of traffic range from a low of 800 to a maximum of 3,800 boats annually. Estimated average expenditure per boat ranged from $19.05 the first year to $21.89 per boat in the fifth year.

In the Financial and Economic Impact statement, an annual operating deficit of $80,000 is predicted. over the first five years.

With estimated grants of 60 to 70 per cent of the capital expenditure, the report estimates the local government would be required to contribute from $660,000 to $1.1-million in capital expenditures.

Since the water course travels through two counties and several municipalities, each would depend on the other to contribute its share to the overall project. Major expenditures would be needed in Bexley Township if a lock were constructed and the JUNIOR GOLFERS: Twenty-three juniors participated in the inaugural Beaverbrook Junior Golf Tournament last week at the Beaverbrook Golf Course.

Beaverbrook hosts Junior Golf Tournament

The first Beaverbrook Junior Golf Tournament achieved its goal.

"They seemed to have a good time," said Dave Stevens, owner of Beaverbrook Golf Course.

Stevens said the purpose of the tournament was to promote junior golf.

This year's event was organized in a week, with the support of sponsors Keaney Chrysler, Pepsi Cola and Mr. D's.

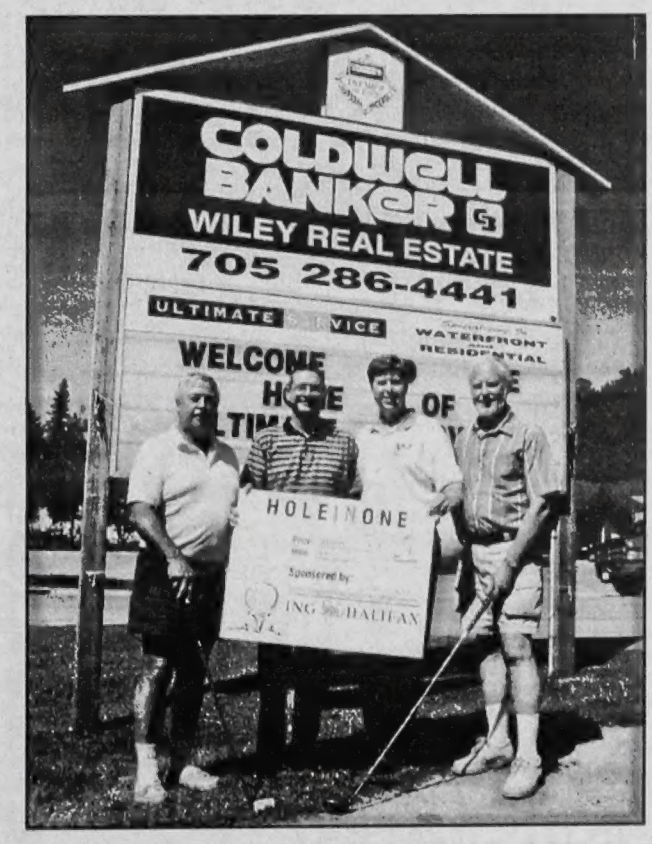
Twenty-three golfers, ranging in age from seven to 17, participated in the tournament. Four golfers competed in the 7-9 age group; 12 in the 10-13 class; and seven in the 14-17 division. Some first-year golfers were among the competitors.

Patrick O'Sullivan won a prize for the longest drive in the 7-9 class. The low net prize went to Ryan Kerr.

Sean Keaney won the prize for low gross in the 10-13 class and Mike Lennox was the winner of the second low gross prize. Third prize went to Brydon Mees.

The closest to the hole prize for the 14-17 class went to Jamie Collis. Mark Hamilton won the longest drive prize. Caleb Lougheed won the low gross prize and the second low gross prize was won by Mark Hamilton.

Stevens said the tournament will be bigger and better next year.



Indiana golfer aces 15th hole at Blairhampton

Dave Boggs of Peru, Indiana has joined a small group of elite golfers who have scored a hole-in-one at the Blairhampton Golf Course.

Boggs aced the 206-yard, par three, 15th hole using a three wood.

The rare feat was witnessed by Murray Chamney of King City, Frank Brown and George Jazzar, both of Aurora.

Local businesses risk $25,000 for Deerhurst Challenge

The hole in one competition in the ninth annual Deerhurst Challenge is being sponsored by two local businesses. Hudson-Henderson Insurance Brokers Ltd. and Coldwell Banker Real Estate have put up the $25,000 cash reward for any golfer acing the 184 yard par 3 seventeenth. If a golfer shoots a hole in one, an additional $10,000 will be donated to local charities. Getting ready for the Challenge are Coldwell Banker representatives Bob Austin, left and John Hincks, right, and Hudson-Henderson Gord Barter and Darryl Hudson.

Local competitors earn top honours at annual horseshoe tournament

Competitors from as far as North Bay, Huntsville, Bracebridge and Port Perry came to Minden for the annual Jerry's Barber Shop Horseshoe Pitching Tournament August 22 at the Dominion Hotel. A total of 22, including a few women, competed for the tournament's top honours.

Tournament sponsor Jerald Cooper said the calibre of the competitors was very high.

When the scores were tallied the winners were all local pitchers.

Mike Byrnes and Chris Robinson earned first place honours. Phil Sawyer and Wayne Sawyer took second and third went to the team of Jerald Cooper and Rick Rowe.

bridge in Coboconk raised. Somerville would be responsible for improvements to the river bed between Silver and Shadow Lakes, as well as any dredging, if necessary to allow passage from the mouth of the Gull River at Shadow Lake and the dock at Norland.

Anson, Hindon and Minden would be responsible for construction of a new dock and improvements to the boat launch. Snowdon would be asked to contribute to the redevelopment of the launch at Canning Lake.

Dysart et al may be required to fund any deepening and/or widening of channels from Grass Lake into Head Lake.

"I really can't see any benefit from the project," said Snowdon Reeve Ross Rigney. "The lake associations are on record opposing it."

Rigney said he will be discussing it with his council at the next meeting.

"We're probably not going to be too excited about it," he said.

Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey was skeptical about the benefits and revenues area businesses would realize from such a project.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Jeanne Anthon noted that events such as the Timbersport Festival draw about 3,000 people into the community.

"We have to watch how we spend the taxpayers' money," she said.

Council made no commitment to support the project.

Timber Framers Guild may help with Mill Project

by Jerry Grozelle

Restoration of the Austin Mill in Kinmount has become an international project. A dozen members of the Timber Framers of North America travelled to Kinmount recently to assess the feasibility of the project.

Timber framers from as far away as Tennessee, New York, Vermont and New Hampshire toured the building. They will present a proposal to the Guild, outlining what needs to be done and recommending whether or not it is a project the Guild should support.

The Guild members became involved through discussions between Clayton Cameron of the Kinmount Planning and Economic Development Committee and Minden timber framer Glenn Diezel. Cameron had approached Diezel for a donation for the committee's annual fund-raising dinner/auction.

During their discussion about the project it became clear that the committee was ready to take the next step after completing the park project around the mill.

"They (the committee members) pretty well had gone as far as they could with their expertise," Diezel said. "The next step was the mill and they were kind of coming to a grinding halt because nobody on the committee had the experience or the contacts at that point (to begin the mill restoration process)."

Diezel told Cameron he would take a look at the building. From what he saw and from talking with the committee, he suggested asking the Guild if it would be interested in the project. Diezel noted that the Guild is now actually a true international organization, with members from England, Germany and other European countries.

"The big criteria for the Guild is that it must be a community oriented project," Diesel said. "They've obviously got a big community thing happening there."

Diezel said the object of the Guild members' visit to the site was "to look at the mill and come up with a proposal to take back to the Guild."

"Right now, we're in the process of putting that proposal together," he said.

They will recommend to the Guild their feelings about whether or not the project is worthy of the Guild's involvement and convey their assessment of what needs to be done and how to tackle the project.

"At the same time, we're making recommendations to the committee, as far as what they need to have prepared and done," Diezel said. "The Guild is mainly interested in the timber end of it."

The timber framers' job, if they decide to take it on, would be to restore and rebuild the support structure of the building. In order to accomplish that, part of the existing structure will have to be removed and the upper part of the building will have to be jacked up and secured so they can do the work under the structure. The framers won't be involved in that proc-

Their recommendations will determine if the Timber Framers of North America will assist with the restoration.

Taking your neighbour's garbage to the dump could be illegal

Translation: You can take your own garbage to the dump. Period.

Hills noted parts of the Act which define sections he interprets to include the average citizen. Waste management system is defined as all equipment which is used for the management of waste. That includes collection, handling, transportation, storage, processing and disposal of waste. Hills underlined the transportation aspect.

Section 27 of the Act states that no person shall use, operate or establish a waste management system without a Certificate of approval or Provisional Certificate of Approval which has been issued by the MoEE.

Waste is defined under the EPA as: "garbage, refuse, domestic waste, industrial waste and such other wastes as are designated under the Regulations."

The MoEE notice says the intention is to "improve the enforcement laws... and to be fair to those who comply with Ontario's environmental laws."

In addition to fines levied against violators, the new Act allows the Ministry to "seize licence plates and permits from vehicles used to commit environmental offenses."

Municipalities can't just ignore the regulations with impunity. Municipalities which allow violations to occur are subject to hefty fines, as well.

Certificates of Approval cost $500, a $200 application fee and a $300 administration fee.

During discussion by members of Anson, Hindon and Minden council it was noted that even restaurants which transport their own refuse to the landfill site or contractors who transport refuse from a work site would be required to purchase a Certificate of Approval from the MoEE.

"We need to let our taxpayers know this," Reeve Jeanne Anthon said, wondering aloud if the municipality and its citizens will be subject to enforcement by "garbage police."

August was a very pleasant summer month, almost equal to last August. There was less than a degree difference in the average temperature between last August and this August. The average rainfall was also about the same, a bit more last August. Most rainfall occurred in the first ten days of the month.

Fall is hurricane season. Arlene, Brad, Cindy and Dannie have passed. Next in line are Emily, Floyd, Gert, Harvey, Irene, José and Katrina. Hope we never meet any of these tyrants.

TRAIL BLAZERS: Gwen Cox, Pauline Plooard and Irene Alexander were three of the volunteers out on the Minden walking trail last week, chipping the trail and generally tidying up. The group is looking for more volunteers to help the municipality clean up the area and make repairs. Anyone interested in helping out should call Gwen Cox at 286-4424.

Police investigation continues into fiery crash son's condition had deteriorated.

Following the accident, the black plume of smoke could be seen throughout the county and from as far away as Coboconk. The burning truck knocked out a main feeder line causing power outages throughout Haliburton County affecting up to 2000 customers from Minden to Wilberforce.

The tractor-trailer, from Flynn Trucking of Peterborough, was westbound, when it sheared off several guard rails and entered a swampy section of the ditch. The truck was carrying 48,000 litres of gasoline which ignited and caused an explosion that rocked neighbouring houses, and shot boiling red and orange flames into the sky. A man, who arrived shortly after the accident, and who asked not to be identified, said he heard three separate explosions. He said that the heat from the burning truck was extraordinarily intense, surrounding the crash site.

The massive fire burned for three hours. Three fire departments responded to the blaze including units from Monmouth, Glamorgan and Dysart fire departments. The fire fighters kept the blaze under control, despite the dense bush area that surrounded the crash site. Billowing clouds of black, acrid smoke filled the air throughout the area. Highway 121 was closed between Paynes Road and the Essonville Line, for several hours, while fire fighters battled the blaze and later while Ontario Hydro Service workers restored the downed power lines.

Looking south, the accident scene, as viewed from the air. (Photo with assistance of pilot Ross McMullen and Stanhope Airport.)

After the fire had subsided, emergency crews and the many onlookers were amazed at the destruction the explosion had caused. Very little of the truck's skeleton remained, with only a smoking, melted mass evident in the ditch.

A short time later, officials from the Ministry of the Environment arrived on the scene to survey the damage and begin the clean up of the area. A front end loader was used to remove the contaminated soil.

The investigation is ongoing and police have not speculated on a cause for the accident.

Resort changes hands and son-in-law in 1993. In that time the resort saw constant growth and improvements including major additions and the acquisition of the adjacent Locarno Resort. Most recently, the Haliburton sewer system was extended to serve the properties along the lake's shore. The resort has been in operation since 1922. The recently purchased Haliburton Highlands Golf Course, located on the south shore of the lake, is not included in the sale.

Prychidny, who was unavailable for comment at press time, is the former president of Ramada Hotels and CEO of Commonwealth Hotels, the operators of the Holiday Inn chain. Most recently he was the CEO of Unihost. The new owner also purchased the Inn on the Falls in Bracebridge.

Chris Grossman said he was delighted that the resort was being purchased by Prychidny. "It is good for the hotel, good for the staff and good for the area." He said the new owners expect to make many changes and improvements.

"It will be hard to leave this behind," Kimberley said, reflecting that the resort property was where she had grown up and was the home for her own family of six. "Many of our guests and staff came back year after year... they were like family to us. "Wigamog has always been a family oriented resort," she said emotionally, "there are a lot of memories and history here for a lot people."

There are 107 on staff during the peak summer months, with 23 full-time employees year-round. The resort has 70 accommodation units. She noted that many staff members had worked with the resort for years. In many cases, the sons and daughters of the adults who had found summer employment at Wigamog, were on staff.

"We're honoured to have been caretakers of this resort with such a strong Highlands heritage," she commented.

At a private event, past staff members and friends gathered Monday night for a farewell to the resort. An evening of reminiscing and a slide show of the past 30 years marked the end of an era.

After being operated for 31 years by the Ward family, Wigamog Resort has been sold.

Drag River rehabilitation: phase one completed

After a long, hot summer of hard work and moving mountains, the co-ordinators of the Drag River Rehabilitation program held an open house to show off their accomplishments and shed a little light on an area of Haliburton village that few have even seen.

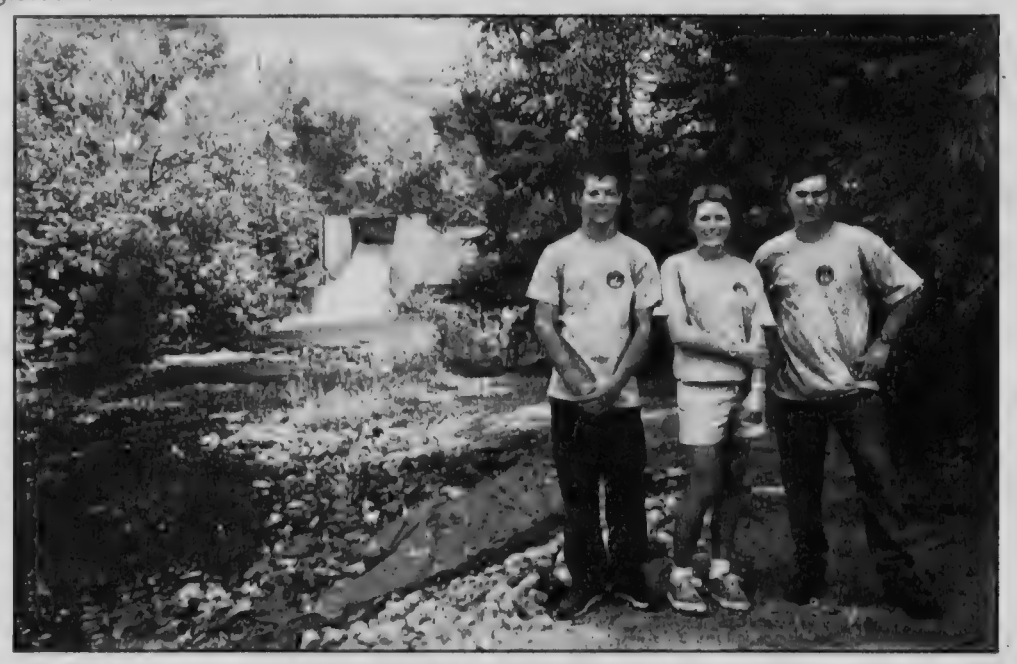
The stretch of the Drag River from Maple Avenue (Highway 118) to the dam behind Emmerson Lumber was featured on the tour of the project on August 27. Close to 100 people attended. High school students and some dedicated volunteers have helped move 800,000 pounds of material through the area, upgrade the river banks, build a retaining wall and generally improve the area around the walleye spawning beds. Dustin Boughner, Carrie Heyes, Curtis Danilko, Kristen Sisson, Mark Sisson, Justin Hie, Shannon Friend and Ben Carnochan, over the past couple of months, worked to enhance what Mother Nature had to offer while Kristi Bowskill-Bolin and Amy Brandon promoted the project to interested parties. "It was great," said Carrie Heyes.

"They did it willingly, with grit, determination and willpower," said Dave Mowat, who is co-ordinating the Drag River project. Mowat feels that if anyone thinks that kids these days don't know the value of a hard day's work, they should have spent some time on the river this summer. Most of the students who worked on the project have already asked to come back next year. The project will continue through the school year, with various classes working on a variety of segments, but a huge part of the work was completed this summer.

Eventually, if the work ethic and donations keep up their intensity, the area will benefit both man and beast. The river is now a much improved spawning area for walleye, and the area surrounding it has been changed to an aesthetically pleasing area for anglers, residents, and visitors alike. "I would like to see this as a real destination for people," said Mowat, who feels that although the project is based in Haliburton Village, it will benefit everyone along the Drag River System, as well as Minden residents.

The project workers will continue to receive donations to help defray the cost of the venture, from both private citizens and various organizations. Already the program has been endorsed by major players, such as the Ministry of Environment, which helped with the cleanup of oil that has plagued the river, as well as the Ministry of Natural Resources, the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters as well as local organizations such as the Haliburton Outdoors Association.

According to some of the student workers, many who attended the open house were amazed to find that this area of the river really existed. Prior to their work, the area was dense bush and litter. More than one hulk of an old car was to be found, as well as many other items. The workers were happy to be a part of a project that will not only improve the environment for the village, but will hopefully live on for generations to come. At the conclusion of the work, a time capsule will be placed in the area to keep a record of the hard work and community effort that has re-built the Drag River for everyone to enjoy.



A JOB WELL DONE: Three of the ten youths who have spent the summer rehabilitating the Drag River in Haliburton greeted visitors during an open house August 27. From the left, Dustin Boughner, Carrie Heyes, and Curtis Danilko.

Maple/Beech Lakes AGM

The following is a report of items discussed at the Maple/Beech Property Owners Association's Annual General Meeting at the Stanhope Firefighters Hall on August 28.

Volunteers needed

President Barry Schroeder welcomed the members to the annual meeting and thanked them for attending. "We have a small group as usual but the important people are here," he joked.

There were no elections held this year, as no one had come forward to replace the current executive. The 1998 executive remains, and the group is still short a vice president. Schroeder asked the group to consider volunteering or to talk with friends and neighbours about helping out at the executive level. "We haven't had an abundance of people to help," said Schroeder. "We would like to have some fresh blood."

The minutes of the previous meeting were reviewed and accepted. It was noted that in last year's minutes a member requested that the municipality set up a viewing area at the Maple Lake waste disposal site so that visitors could watch the bears that frequent the dump.

Update from council

Deputy Reeve Murray Daniels spoke to the group to review what the municipality has been working on over the course of the past year. "It's been a very busy year for council. It's been very frustrating at times, what with fire, roads and AVA (Actual Value Assessment)," said Daniels.

Daniels highlighted some of the projects for the coming year, including the re-surfacing of the Buckslide Road for 3.6 kilometres, from the bridge to Highway 35. He also reported that the fire department and waste management budgets had risen, and there will be a slight increase on municipal levies. For example, on a property assessed at $100,000, there will be a $7.60 increase on the tax bill. He also reported on the topic of amalgamation in Haliburton County. A member asked Daniels about a rumour that the Stanhope airport would be expanding by tunneling underneath the airport road, but Daniels assured the audience that this was not the case.

Guest speakers

The property owners heard from three guest speakers at the meeting. Anthony vanLieshout of Haliburton Appraisal Services spoke briefly and said that he would be available if anyone had questions on assessment or property value.

Carol Moffatt spoke to the group about the Hawk Lake Log Chute. This project is aimed at restoring the only original log chute in Ontario, as well as its promotion and accessibility. A group of volunteers is attempting to raise $100,000 for the project and Moffatt made a request for a donation from the Maple-Beech association.

As well, Constable Dave Trepanier brought the group up to date on the new boating laws, and handed out pamphlets outlining the new regulations.

Constable Dave Trepanier, left, brings members of the Maple/Beech Lake Property Owners up to date on changes to boating regulations. The meeting was held August 28 at the Fire Fighters Hall in Stanhope.

Water level decline is within average

The following report was issued by the Trent Severn Waterway Staff on August 31, 1999

At 57 per cent, the Haliburton area lakes were about 3.7 per cent lower, on average, than normal. This was about 4.2 per cent higher than on the same date in 1998. It was possible to reduce tributary flow last week due to a small surplus on the Kawarthas, but that is now gone. A decline is underway again due to the lack of rainfall. Flows are being increased again this week from the reserve lakes to slow the decline along the canal route. Minimum flows have been set along the Otonabee and Trent rivers to reduce the needed input from the reserve system.

Lake Simcoe continues near its normal level though it took quite a decline the last weekend. It appears to be about three cm lower than normal for the time of year.

Kim Varty: Student school board trustee

The Trillium Lakelands District School Board now has two Haliburton County representatives. Kim Varty, who will be starting grade 12 this week, is this year's student trustee. She will bring the thoughts and ideas of the student population to the school board.

Varty was selected as not only a representative of the students of the school board, but of the Group of Seven, a council of students from each of the seven secondary schools under the Trillium Lakelands umbrella. The group meets monthly to discuss student issues and concerns.

Kim is excited about the coming year and what she and the group hope to accomplish. "We're really excited about the ideas that we have to bring. We want to raise the profile of our role in the schools," said Varty. She notes that the Group of Seven has several plans on its agenda including an information brochure, hosting parents night, a millennium project, as well as the goal of building unity within the seven schools which are seperated by such great distances.

Varty was sworn in as an official member of the school board at its meeting in Bracebridge on August 31. The student trustee is not allowed to attend any in camera sessions of the board, nor vote on any recommendations.

Kinmount Kapers

Representatives from several branches of the Royal Canadian Legion, as well as the Haliburton Pipes and Drums led the fair parade through Kinmount to the fair grounds on Saturday.

Labour day weekend means one thing and one thing only in Kinmount - the annual Kinmount Agricultural Fair. This year's extravaganza proved once again to be a huge success, with thousands of visitors and participants taking in all the fair had to offer.

The weekend was busy with a variety of exhibitions. From the pioneer exhibit, to the midway, the animals, the shopping and let's not forget the food, there were but a few short moments to rest in the shade.

The grandstand was packed with spectators, who watched everything from truck and tractor pulls to a demolition derby and they had several musical acts to choose from.

Summer may not be officially over, but the Kinmount fair is a final chance for friends and family to take in the last of the warm weather and enjoy the bounty of the summer harvest. It will be hard to top this year's event with the Kinmount fair 2000.

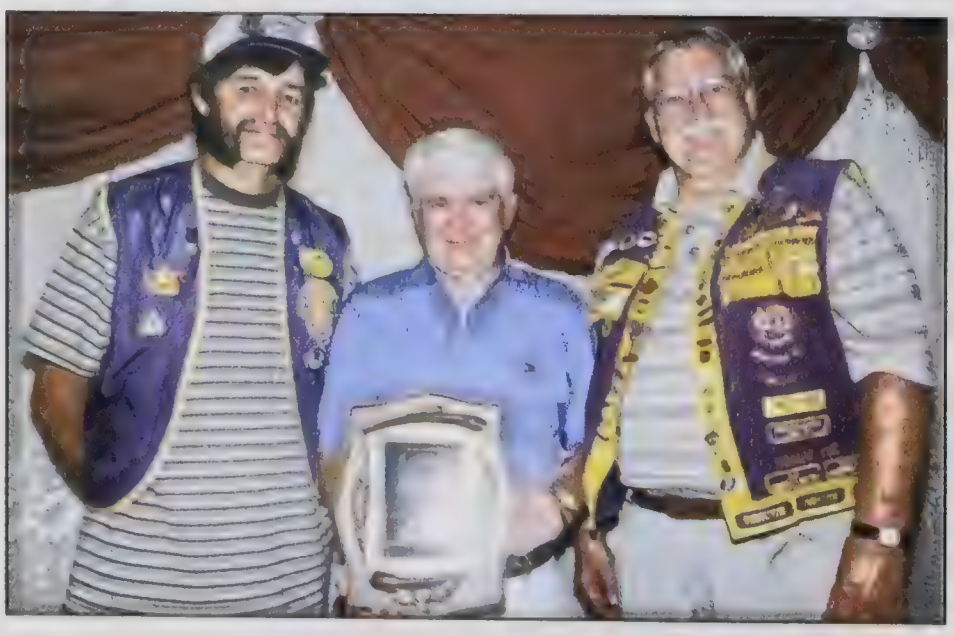
Photos by Ariel White

This pony ride is better than a merry-go-round.

The midway rides are always thrilling.

This chicken was dressed for success at the poultry barn.

A balanced diet is very important, even during the parade.



Kinmount Lions President, Tony Weerdenburg left, presents Ted Wilkes with the Kinmount Lions 1999 Citizen of the Year award with Lion Doug King. Wilkes was chosen for his dedication to health care in the community.

1998 Fair Queen Amy Ehmann hands over her title to Fair Princess Melissa Simmons and 1999 Fair Queen Robynne Kilby. Also competing were Tracy Gay and Serena Crego.

ess, other than to make recommendations and to work out some details with the building raising contractors. The raising of the structure will be a feat in itself, since the machinery is suspended under the floor of the upper level.

Diezel said discussions with the other Guild members who viewed the mill have been positive. They consider the project one that can be accomplished.

"The way I see it is that the Guild is one phase of the entire project," Diezel said. "What we really have to do is get the ball rolling at this end and then fit the Guild in.

"Everything was pretty positive as far as the Guild's aspect of it goes. There is a fair bit of work to be done because of the state of the mill. But, it's not a lost cause."

Diezel has been in contact with the other Guild members by phone, fax and e-mail since they were in Kinmount. He said they are just getting started in the process of putting a proposal together.

If the Guild decides to go ahead with the project, its involvement will have to be timed to coincide with favourable water levels. The timing of the timber framing work will also be dependant on the site preparation work, which will have to be completed before the framers can start.

Diezel said that if everything goes well, the framing work could possibly get started in the early fall of next year.

"I could see it happening this time next year if everything goes well, he said. "But before that happens, there is a lot of ground work to be done... final architectural design and site preparation."

Projects in which the Guild participates serve as an educational experience for some of its members. As Randy Churchill of Vermont explained, sometimes Guild members will actually pay to take part in such projects so they can gain valuable experience.

The committee expects to have some response from the Guild within the next few weeks.

Somerville Reeve Dianne Austin is very pleased that the Guild is considering helping with the project.

"It's such a piece of history. It has to be preserved," she said. The restoration of the old mill has long been a dream of the Kinmount community.

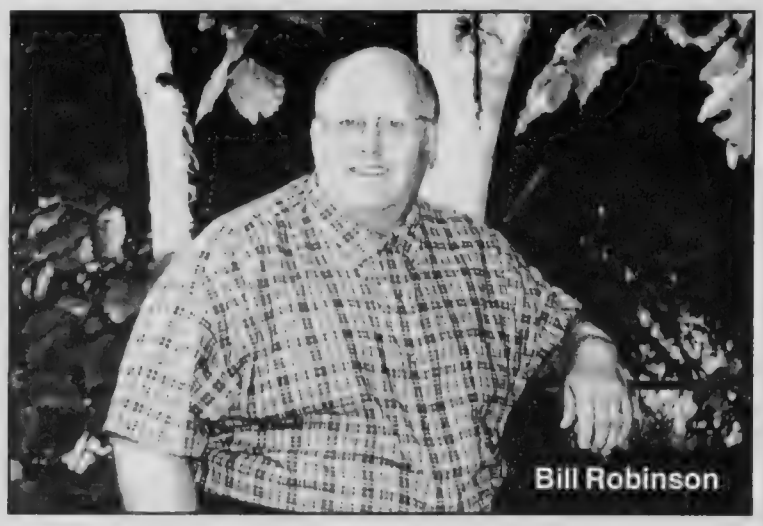
Business Profile

Clarica - serving Canadians for 129 years

Whether you're single, have a family, or operate your own business, fast-paced lifestyles have created many challenges. In fact, we're often so busy we're left with very little time to plan for tomorrow.

Bill Robinson, an independent agent with Clarica, can help by providing honest, professional advice to help you find solutions to your financial needs.

Clarica is brand new, however, unlike some new enterprises it doesn't have to struggle to find its identity or its purpose. With roots going back to 1870, Clarica has a proud past, clear focus on the present, and great expectations for the future.



Bill Robinson

Clarica was Mutual Life of Canada. With the recent conversion from a mutual company owned by policyholders to a stock company owned by shareholders, the century old name was no longer appropriate. The new name was carefully chosen to portray the strength of the company - bringing clarity to the confusing world of investments.

Through their understanding and commitment to meeting their customers' needs, Clarica has remained the company with the industry's highest individual customer retention rate. The company's representatives have touched the lives of approximately one in 10 Canadians from coast to coast. Many of their clients third and fourth generation of the same family.

Bill became an agent with the Barrie Branch of Clarica in November of 1996, following a 27-year career in the banking industry.

"The bank isn't what it use to be," Bill said. "When customers became numbers and statistics instead of human beings, I knew it was time to make a career change."

"I feel honoured to be a representative of Clarica. Not only because of the way it treats its clients, but because of the respect and confidence it has shown in me as an agent. "

In 1997, with an agent retiring from the Huntsville office, Clarica approached Bill with an offer to relocate."

"My wife Autumn and I jumped at the chance," Bill said. "With Autumn being a native to Minden and my having spent 14 years of summers and weekends here, we consider Minden our home. Dreaming of one day returning, we saw the move to Huntsville as a step closer to that dream."

While Bill maintains an office in Huntsville his clients live everywhere from Toronto to North Bay.

"Much of my business is built on referrals," Bill said. "A client in Huntsville, for instance, referred me to relatives in Brampton. They in turn referred me to friends in Alliston. Referrals are the ultimate compliment, it tells me that what I'm doing is right."

Bill offers a range of customized products including life, disability and estate protector insurance, financial and retirement planning, RRSP's, RRIF's, GIC's, annuities, mutual funds, pension plans, employee benefits, registered education savings plans and mortgages.

"Whether you're an individual or business client, my commitment is to serving you," Bill said. "I believe that listening and understanding are the keys to providing sound financial solutions. I also know that all situations are different and that financial choices can be complex and often confusing. I'm here to help!"

MP John O'Reilly has a new web site

Ottawa report
by John O'Reilly, MP

The Internet is a very valuable resource, which has yet to tap into all Canadians households. Although in the near future a great deal of Canadians will have a computer and/or Internet Access.

More and more businesses are using the Internet for simple things such as to chat with others, sending e-mails and playing games. While others are using it for much more complex things such as buying automobiles, doing their banking, posting their resumes, etc. Most federal government offices have had Internet access for the last 3 to 4 years. My office in Ottawa has had it since 1996.

In the fall of that year I launched my web site. While not many households in this riding had Internet access I wanted to be able to let all constituents in this riding have the opportunity to reach me through any form of communication necessary. On July 1st of this year my web site was totally redesigned by JAC Design. This business is located in the riding in Lindsay. They did a wonderful job in making the site faster to download and easier to read. Please visit the site at <http://www.halhinet.on.ca/oreillyj>

I hope that this web page helps you gain valuable information from a political frame point as to the latest developments (between myself. your elected official and that of the federal government). This page also provides many valuable links to both political organizations and local groups and communities. Please visit these sites to learn more about this riding and/or the federal government.

On my web site you will find information such as: how to get a passport, my biography, 1997 election results, my voting record, a map of the riding, press releases, weekly columns and valuable links in the riding and to the government.

While this was all listed on the old site, the new site features faster downloading of each page, buttons that are easy to access along the side and it is a lot easier to use.

I encourage you to voice your opinions, suggestions and comments to this page on any federal issue. I hope you find this site insightful and informative.

Interim funding keeps VCARS operating until next March

-submitted-

Victim Crisis Assistance and Referral Service (VCARS) has been notified by the Ministry of the Solicitor General, of the commitment of interim funding until March 31, 2000.

To the benefit of the residents of Victoria and Haliburton Counties, with this financial commitment, from the Ministry, it allows VCARS to continue to meet our mandate to provide immediate emotional and practical needs to victims of crime, tragic circumstances and disaster. The funding will also enable additional staff to be placed to continue training initiatives, of volunteer responders, and liaise with the public and police to establish a better understanding of VCARS.

The Board, Co-ordinator and the volunteers of VCARS thank all those who offered their support in our time of need. The immediate crisis has passed, but, as funding is interim, until March 31, 2000, continued lobbying is required to ensure full operation is maintained through a fully funded program.

As well, additional members are required to fill vacant positions on the Board of Directors. Anyone with interest in becoming a board member please call 705-878-3939 for information.

636 hosts Drumhead Services

Service Clubs
by Cub Coneybeare

Bonjour.

August is gone but there is lots of summer left, Indian Summer then glorious October. Time of year that men's attitudes change for the moose and white tail annual challenge.

Our annual fair is history for the 1900's. I believe the fair was good and promises to be better for the millennium.

The hospitality tent was better and ran well thanks to a few faithful volunteers.

The big meat draw was profitable. All the proceeds going to the revitalization of our beautiful cairn, money well spent. Thanks to all our organizers and sellers.

Talking about our cairn, I'd like to insert the following message from our branch secretary Comrade Shirley Kirk.

The Drumhead Ceremony is taking place on Sunday, September 12. At 1:30 p.m. we will form up at the lower level of the parking lot of the arena, and at 1:45 p.m. we will march off. There will be a parade to the cairn for the laying of wreaths, then onto the fairgrounds for the drumhead service. We will then parade back to the community centre for supper and comradeship.

If you plan to attend the supper, please reply to the Legion bar at 286-4541 and leave your name, or sign the sheet on the branch bulletin board.

Calendar of events

- Every Monday: Cribbage at 7:30 p.m.
- Every Tuesday: Mixed Darts at 7 p.m.
- First Wednesday of each month: the Branch general meeting at 7:30 p.m.
- Second Wednesday of each month: the Ladies Auxiliary meeting at 7 p.m.
- Third Wednesday of each month: trivia at 7:30 p.m.
- Last Wednesday of each month: the Branch Executive meeting at 7 p.m.
- Every Wednesday: the Meat Draw takes place at noon.
- Every Friday: Mixed Darts at 7 p.m.
- Last Sunday of each month: Open Mixed Darts at noon. Full lunch menu is available.
- Lunch is served from Monday to Saturday from noon until 2 p.m.

Volunteers needed

The Ladies Auxiliary is desperately in need of cooks and waitresses. If you are a Branch member or Auxiliary member, and can spare one day a month, it would be appreciated.

It may come to the point that the kitchen may have to close for a couple of days a week if help cannot be obtained. Please call Comrade Sheila Burke at 286-4666 if you would like to serve tables or call Comrade Terry Campbell at 286-1031 if you would like to try your hand at cooking.

Ninety per cent of all profits from the kitchen is turned over to your branch to assist with the day to day operational expenses.

Comrade Bess Cox is our property chair person for the coming year. Comrade Bess could use some volunteer help for many small jobs around your Legion such as grass cutting, trimming, window cleaning, weed pulling etc. Please leave your name and telephone number at the bar.

My last item is of human interest.

This has to do with a former legionnaire of Branch 636 Minden. This lady was Mary Coneybeare, my wife, who passed on February 2, 1998. When Mary died, my four sons and I had an extremely tough decision. We had a family meeting and decided to donate her organs to medicine.

From the last letter from the Hospitals of Toronto, I am happy to report Mary is out there within seven individuals. They are now functioning because of my Mary.

Thanks!

Cub

THE ROYAL CANADIAN LEGION
BRANCH 636
MINDEN

Host Branch for
ZONE F-4 DRUMHEAD SERVICE
Sunday, September 12, 1999
Parade starts at 1:30 p.m.

Cordially invite Minden and area residents to view the parade of 13 Branch Colours, Zone Colours, Bracebridge Legion Pipe and Drum Band, and a marching band.

The parade will proceed from the arena to the Cairn at the Library for a brief Service of Remembrance, then onto the Minden Fairground Stage for the Drumhead Ceremony. Comradeship will follow at the Community Centre.

Soldiers about to go into battle, asked for divine help and guidance in the difficult times ahead. Because of distance and lacking any means of transport to take the Soldiers to Church, the Regimental Padre conducted the Service in the field. Lacking any altar, the regimental drums were put into service by being stacked one upon the other in several layers which served as a temporary altar. Once yearly a Drumhead Service is held to pay homage to those of our Comrades who offered their lives in the defense of our Country.

Gelert ladies host weekly tea party

Senior League
by the Roving Reporters

A warm hello to everyone. By the time you read this the Labour Day weekend will be history. One can already feel the fall starting, cooler mornings with foggy roads and then the lovely warm sunshine in the afternoons. Oh well, summer may be just about over but it gives one time to catch a breath.

We mentioned last week that the leaves of some trees are turning. Almost time to enjoy another season. We look forward each year to when we can take our bus trip to see the fall colours, but there are lots to do here until then.

Our Tea Party last Thursday (August 26th) was our Birthday Tea and we welcomed the ladies from Gelert. These ladies are familiar to us and we enjoyed visiting with them while they provided a lovely tea. Our thanks to them. The following morning we were happy to have Jack and Ruth Worthington with us and in the afternoon at Happy Hour we were joined by the Grandfathers. So all in all a great day for the music we love. And our thanks to those concerned.

Although our weekend was quiet (no special activities planned) we were very pleased to see so many visitors popping in. Our week began with an afternoon at Lottie's. Quite a few of us accepted an invitation to visit with Lottie Edwards-Ruttan at her home. Those residents who went reported a very pleasant outing. Toos Reid, Rose Barry and Larry Vanlieshout entertained them and a great time was had singing along. They had lots of fun and got back just in time for dinner. A big, big thank you goes to Lottie for her wonderful hospitality and the delicious tea that was served. We would also like to thank those people that helped Lottie make us feel so welcome.

That evening the regular card group got together for a fun time. Rev. Everall was here Tuesday morning for our weekly Chapel Service and that evening we warmly welcomed a Joyful Noise to our home. Two young men, one playing the keyboard and mouth organ and the other the guitar played lovely country gospel music. We thank them for coming and spending time with us. Much appreciated!

Afterwards we tucked into some homemade bread. (Just yummy!) Last night the Norland Hillbillies were with us for our Pub Night. Once again good toe tapping music and we finished off the evening with some more homemade bread, this time cranberry. We also tucked into some cookies from our own Edna Scott. Thursday is beginning and as we sit here, writing up the news, we can hear Marj and Peggy Packer in the kitchen baking. Today has lemon bars and butterscotch cookies on the menu, and guess what, we hung around long enough and were lucky to sample some butterscotch cookies. They were good!

This afternoon's Tea Party is scheduled to be hosted by the Kinmount Anglican Church ladies. We look forward to having them with us.

Over the last few days there have been some special visitors for a couple of our residents. Alice Morrison enjoyed the company of her son (Myles) his wife (Linda) and grandson (Brent), from the Bradford area. They were here for a total of three days staying at the Minden House. They joined Alice here at meal times and treated her to a nice long drive in the country.

Lillian Harrison was pleased to have three visitors from New York State in to visit her. Lillian was also treated to a lovely lunch out at the Pinestone. It was nice to see these two ladies enjoying their special company.

We send belated birthday wishes to Helen Burton, Helen is one of our newest residents who celebrated on September 5th. Hope you enjoyed your special day Helen. We're sorry we missed mentioning your birthday last week.

Before we go we send get-well wishes to Janet Donnery who is off for a few days. Kelly Harpley is back with us meanwhile helping out. Guess we passed on all our news so we will say goodbye and will catch you next week.

Around the County Town

by Nora Snyder (call 286-4450)

As I write, the golden sunshine fills the air. The sky is a deep blue with the evergreens framed against it. This would be a perfect day to keep in a bottle and lift the top off on a cold dark day in February to let all this beauty and well-being out into our winter cold. The last days of summer, just before all the kids and teachers head back to the classroom for another year of teaching and learning. Anticipating the new Millennium beginning in January. That should be exciting for the kids....but to-day it is still summer and it is breathtaking!!

* * *

Speaking of beauty, a reminder of Minden Horticulture Society monthly meeting on September 7, (to-day), at the Minden Community Centre starting at 7:30 p.m. Carol Oldfield of The Tin House in Kirkfield will be the guest speaker talking about Drying and Dried Flowers and also about the New Zealand Delphinium. Sounds like a great meeting.

* * *

Also a reminder that it is the Plant Sale of the Horticulture Society on Friday, September 10 at the Gazebo starting at 2 p.m. All the plants for sale by the members should be labeled with name of plant, colour, height and type of soil and light requirements. Get there right on time in order to snap up your favourites!! We are all starting to prepare the gardens ready for a rest!!

On September 11 and 18, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Marie Pentland from, Nanna's Treasures will conduct a two part Porcelain Doll Workshop at the Kinmount Artisans' Market Place. All materials for making a 'Sugar Lump Baby' are provided and the fee is $12. Call 488-1414 or 488-2938 to reserve your spot! The Market Place is located in town at the corner of Highway 121 and Highway 45; it's just up the hill!!

The Haliburton Highlands Genealogy Group holds its next meeting on Wednesday, September 8 in the Public Library at 7 p.m. "The History of Postcards from 1869 to 1999" is the topic for the night. Richard Crawford will talk about the rise in popularity of Picture Postcards over the years. While demonstrating how they can add pictorial interest and historical knowledge to Family History Research. Postcards are one of the best known sources of illustrations of street scenes, churches and other places of local interest and were published in the millions at the end of the last century. Even if you are not interested in genealogy you are sure to find this subject interesting!!

If you are of one of our Seniors, are you looking for a new interest? How about volunteering at the Chamber of Commerce!! As of Labour Day, the summer students who have been working at the Chamber have to leave their posts and head back to school. This leaves a lot of time available to fill with well informed, energetic volunteers who like meeting people and helping visitors find their way around our county and answering their questions. This volunteering could be of interest to seniors who are open to adventure, a desire to help out and wanting to fill some time over the winter in a worthwhile pursuit. Training is available and the number of hours you can give is up to you. If this sounds like something up your alley, please call Brian Kernohan or Ross Rigney at the Chamber, 286-1760.

Today, September 7, at 2 p.m. the Hazelbrae-Barnardo Homes Memorial Group meets at Peterborough Manor, 1039 Water Street in Peterborough. The Phone number is 1-705-742-7523.

Thank you to Marion Hill who gave me a replacement flag!! How kind!! I think I will wait until next year to fly it again and bring it in every night every August night!!

* * *

I promised not to mention B.B.'s birthday which is September 2. So have a great day anyway!!

* * *

I hope the last weekend of the summer was a joyous one for you. Back into another week and into the fall!! Where did it all go? See you here next week.

It is sad to walk the road alone,

But to all there comes a moment
When the ways of life divide;
You gave me years of happiness,
Then came sorrow and tears
But you left me beautiful memories
I will treasure through the years.
